Twenty-Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Weekly Reflection

Today's magnificent gospel reading from the 15th chapter of St Luke's Gospel reminds us of God's infinite mercy and the lengths he's willing to go to so "that all people be saved and come to the knowledge of the truth." Pope Francis last December 8, 2015 launched an "Extraordinary Jubilee Year of Mercy" to once again extend to all of God's people the invitation to come and drink from the wellspring of God's infinite mercy. This special year of grace ends November 20, 2016 with the great Solemnity of Christ the King. This year is not like any other, we should not let it pass without making a special effort to celebrate this gift of mercy with ourselves seeking God's mercy and being merciful to others. If we haven't been to confession for some time, this is the time. We can also get out of our comfort zones and invite those who have been away from the Church to come back through the Sacrament of Reconciliation where God's mercy is poured out to wipe away our sins and to heal us. The following excerpt is from the Papal Document that launched this year of extraordinary grace with a particular focus on looking at today's parables of mercy. "In the parables devoted to mercy, Jesus reveals the nature of God as that of a Father who never gives up until he has forgiven the wrong and overcome rejection with compassion and mercy. We know these parables well, three in particular: the lost sheep, the lost coin, and the father with two sons (cf. Lk 15:1-32). In these parables, God is always presented as full of joy, especially when he pardons. In them we find the core of the Gospel and of our faith, because mercy is presented as a force that overcomes everything, filling the heart with love and bringing consolation through pardon." (Misericordiae Vultus #9) ~ Deacon Luis Rubi

Faith Formation Volunteers Needed

The St. Matthew and St. Michael Faith Formation program for public school students in grades 1 to 10 will resume in late September, and we have openings for teachers and helpers. Volunteers should enjoy helping children know, love, and serve Jesus and their neighbor, as they learn more about their Catholic faith. Classes are held at St. Matthew on Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 7:45 PM between September and April. Books and supplies are provided. In addition to the regular volunteers who come on Wednesday evenings, our Faith Formation program needs occasional helpers in various roles (mostly hospitality) during the school year. The time commitment can be as little as 3 hours for one day or one evening. To find out more call, Janelle Rohr 651-457-3522 or jdrohr@pro-ns.net.
